

What is the purpose of Early Intervention services?

The aims and objectives of Early Intervention services are as:

- To prevent the developmental delay and disability.
- To Screen and identify at risk children
- To Stimulate the child through the normal developmental channels
- To enhance normal development and independent functioning of the child
- To Maximize the child's residual capacity so that we can minimize the need of future therapy and special education
- To increase the family awareness and involvement in intervention to support child's development.
